

Relentless Love is a thing of mysterious splendor. It's origin could only come from a divine source, enchanting us humans to ever seek the experience of its pure essence. It is poetry in motion and few there'll be that will conform to its perfect rhyme. It takes a willingness to expand beyond all human concepts in order to embrace its awe and wonder. It is God's miraculously clever way of showing us exactly how He loves us all.

This is a 'true love' story expressed in poetry.

Penelope is the name I have given to the lover that lives within us all. She is the part who believes in true love and is relentlessly urging us to explore its real meaning, even if it requires giving up every known human concept of how it should be.

I am one of her captured hearts, and this is my story.
